Volunteer workshop held at Doon

By Heather Brown

A volunteer management workshop, "Education and Recreation at Vancouver," was held at Doon College last night (Feb. 12).

Workshop leader, Anne G. Davis, explained a number of the challenges a leader of a volunteer workshop must face. She said that the workshop must be a place where the volunteer can find a sense of purpose and a place to grow.

The workshop explored various ways to recruit and train a volunteer to help in a workshop. She said that the workshop must be a place where the volunteer can find a sense of purpose and a place to grow.

"It can be a challenge to get a volunteer to help in a workshop," she said. "But it is worth it if you can get people to do the work because it is a challenge."

There will be a workshop on the workshop in the future. She said that the workshop must be a place where the volunteer can find a sense of purpose and a place to grow.

Ottawa team takes extramural hockey tournament at Doon

By Gary White

Ottawa's La Cite College's eleven players won't have to worry about their extramural hockey team's performance in the upcoming season.

La Cite was one of nine teams that came to Doon for a three-day tournament, participating in a combined hockey tournament at the University of Regina's Doon campus from Feb. 18-20. The teams were divided into four divisions — red, blue, and white. The winners of each division play a consolation game for the trophy, suspended in the honor of playing in the championship game.

The red division featured La Cite College, Windsor-La Cite, and Carleton Place.

Doon College, Doon, won the 11-0 victory over La Cite. The blue division featured La Cite College, Carleton Place, and Carleton Place. The white division featured La Cite College, Carleton Place, and Carleton Place.

La Cite currently leads the tournament, having won a convincing 11-0 victory over Carleton Place. The game was played at the University of Regina's Doon campus.

Doon College's players were not only the best players in the tournament, but they were also the best players in the tournament.

Intramural hockey playoffs heat up — three teams move on

By Gary Wolfe

When the MHA playoff tournament in the spring commences, three sportsmen will play with feeling over that last old rivalry: "It's a new rivalry."

In the playoffs, knowledge is combined with a roller coaster journey and huge doses of team talent.

The Women's Bulldogs, winners of 18 of 11 games during the season, will play regular season opponents in a double-header Friday night at the University of Idaho. The Bulldogs will play the University of Idaho Bulldogs.
